Jr. Club Met April 24

The April meeting of the Junior Women's Club of Appomattox was held Tuesday evening, April 24th, at the Court house. Mrs. Virginia Babcock, Probation Officer and Supervisor of the Fifth District Juvenile and Domestic relations Court, spoke to the club and answered questions on the topic of Child Abuse. Included in Mrs. Babcock's talk were reports providing examples of child abuse and the methods these problems were resolved; an explanation of the child abuse law (National and State); and methods of reporting suspected cases of child abuse.

The club membership is specifically interested in the problem of child abuse as it is a state-wide Junior Women's Club project to help bring this problem to the attention of the public and assist in helping protect the abused child. In connection with this project, pamphlets (prepared by the American Humane Association, Children's Division) are being distributed by the club to teachers, nurses, councelors, and administrators of Appomattox County schools. Entitled Guideline for Schools, these pamphlets are designed to provide information on how to help protect the neglected and abused children of our community.

Following Mrs. Babcocks informative talk, a business meeting was held. The club voted to use a percentage of the procedes of its April 28th backyard sale for donation to the Nancy Doss Fund. In addition to this purpose, the revenue from this sale is also to be used to help provide funds for sending a child to Camp Easter Seal this summer, and the Centennial Scholarship given to a graduating senior attending a nursing or technical school.

The club membership also voted to continue sponsorship of the Bloodmobile visits for the coming year.

Of Interest To Veterans

The 1972 amendments to the Social Security Act (Public Law 92-603) contained a provision granting Social Security credits of up to $100 a month for active military service during the period 1957 through 1967. Until this change the credits were given only for active service after 1967.

The change affects those men on active duty during this 11-year period whose military pay was less than $400 a month. They may now receive an additional 67 period, or is a survivor of someone who did, and he is now getting monthly Social Security checks, he should get in touch wit h his local Social Security office because he may be eligible for a higher monthly benefit. The Social Security office says the additional benefit could amount to "around three or four dollars." Benefit increases on the basis of these credits can first be paid for January, 1973, but they must be applied for.

Those who served in the 1957-67 period, but are not yet drawing Social Security benefits(as of January 1, 1973) won't have to apply for this additional benefit. They will receive it automatically when they retire and start receiving benefits.

Live Again Colonial America

Dean Johns' Place Restored

The greatest asset Appomattox County possesses is her legacy of heritage. This no one can dispute.

This heritage has been further enriched by the restoration of the Major William Duval mansion, better known to most people in our area as the Dean Johns place.

According to records and research furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. Weaver, present owners, the colonial American home was built in the late 1700s and was named "Mount Comfort" by the original owner, Major William Duval, the father of Major Duval.

"Mount Comfort" as it stands today consists of 206 acres of rolling fields, a beautiful country manor gold frame house with green shutters and roof, with 2 stories high with full basement. It sets atop a hill with a picturesque view of the James River of Otter and the Blue Ridge Mountains. When the Weavers purchased this 14 room dwelling last year, although in a poor state of repair, it was evident that it was designed and built to be the home of a prosperous family. Due to the quality of material and construction the Weavers have managed to retain the original-style colonial design in that the mantels are the original and also original are the pine floors, panel wainscoating, doors and locks, mounted with H hinges, hand hewn exposed beams and ten usable rooms.

Major William Duval was born in 1788 at his parent's home, "Mount Comfort", in Campbell County, Virginia. He died at his plantation in Appomattox County also named "Mount Comfort" (then a part of Buckingham County) in 1845 at the age of 56. Major Duval was a prominent Virginia lawyer, an officer in the Revolutionary War, a large land owner and a prominent figure in business and professional affairs of his state. His daughter, Susan Elizabeth, married Isaac Adams, of Lynchburg, Virginia and after the death of her father, the Major, this became the Adams home and later the resting place of Isaac and Susan Adams in the plantation family cemetery where their markers may be seen today along with others of that era. In 1845 this property was acquired by Dean Johns, a Captain in the Confederate Army during the War Between the States and the man who served as the first Commissioner of the Revenue for Appomattox County.

Mr. Weaver acquired his knowledge of history through his interest in old homes and antiques.

The "Mount Comfort" plantation home, located on Route 711 just off Route 26 approximately three miles north of Appomattox, will be open for the "Tour of Homes" to be sponsored by the Woman's Club of Appomattox on Monday night, May 7, 1972.

The Eli Terry mantel clock, Winthrop desk with hidden document drawers, the William & Mary Low Boy, Wythe House Gold, Cromo oil paintings of Lee, Jackson, Lincoln, Martha and George Washington all add a chance to the decor of each room in the home.

In addition to the above mentioned attractions "Mount Comfort" has to offer visitors there is one other factor she possesses which is also a great asset to her, namely the people who live there will make your visit in their home a pleasant one.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver moved to Appomattox from "The Grove" on Timberlake Road in Lynchburg. They are the parents of two children, Martha, a student at Randolph - Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg and Mac, a 9th grade student at Appomattox Intermediate School.

Mr. Weaver says that the latch string is out on their door and guests are always welcomed.

Plain living and high thinking are no more.

-William Wordsworth.
